The YAI Players (left) performed at the Central Park Bandshell on June 5, 2004 to help raise $800,000 in the annual YAI/ National Institute for People with Disabilities' Central Park Challenge.

For the third consecutive year, SBLI USA Mutual Life Insurance Company, Inc. was a corporate sponsor of the event, and many of the company's associates and family members participated in the day's activities, which included a 3K walk, a 5K run, and a "Family Fun Day" to help build brighter futures for people with disabilities.

In supporting YAI, SBLI USA and other corporate sponsors help to fund innovative programs and services that include early childhood intervention and preschool, health care, family support and recreation and camping for people with developmental disabilities.
